Be My Valentine

EDITOR'S NOTES

Happy Lover's Day!!!

First, thanks to each and everyone who has purchased a copy. Thanks for your support and we at TFM would like to offer you a big...

We have a fantastic line up! I want to thank Jessica Kelly and Bob Walker for the fantastic cover and pictorial. My thought was, what could be more perfect than getting up with your muffin for a nice cup of coffee on Valentine's Day. Thanks to fan favorite Miss Jenna and Marty McKee for their bridal pictorial.

TFM Model of the Year Geneva finishes off our pictorials. Another amazing job from Geneva and Marty.

We asked our readers on our Facebook page for article ideas. One of the responses was Why Women Cheat. Seth Miller answers that question.

As always there is Honey West. This month she pays homage to slain American beauty Dorothy Stratten. There's plenty of beauty and good reading!

That said...on to the next one!

Larry Flynt has placed a bid on the Playboy Mansion. The mansion is on the market for $200 million with one clause - that the 89 year old Hefner remains in the home until he dies.

This comes from the Hustler staff, though Flynt claims that he has 0 interest in the property. His staff, who thinks it would make a great office and place to party, may have convinced Flynt to take a look at it.

No worries here, Hefner has to approve the buyer and it's safe to say that the likelihood he would sell to Flynt won't happen, not even over his dead body.

Truth be told...

Sex tape and reality television star Farrah Abraham dropped a bomb on the Kardashian's after being dissed on the FYI show Kocktails with Khloe.

Kendall Jenner questioned some of the life choices that Farrah had made in the past.

Abraham took to Twitter with the picture to the left, featuring Kim Kardashian's sex tape partner Ray J, #Lifechoices @Kendall Jenner @HollywoodLife. Yes the blurred word is Dick.

Currently, one of TFM's hardest working models.

A wonderful mix of Filipina, Spanish and Samoan, Geneva started out with us a little over a year ago and worked really hard to earn Model of the Year 2015.

She's made TFM promo photos, creates TFM videos and reached out to all of her fans to push her ahead in the polls for MOTY.

She just keeps knocking it out of the park! One of TFM's most interactive models!

Q & A

Top Floor Magazine answers the questions submitted to the Playboy Advisor

My girlfriend wants to know how I lost my virginity. Actually after 26 years of waiting. I hired a hooker. That was four years ago. I have been honest with my girlfriend about everything else, so I feel guilty about withholding this. I'm pretty certain she would end our relationship if she knew. What should I do? - R.C., New York, NY

Oh, that's an easy one. Tell her it's NONE OF HER FUCKING BUSINESS. Just kidding! This really is an easy fix. There's always a way to tell the truth without telling the whole truth and NOTHING but the truth. You can tell her what happened just replace "Hired a hooker" with "Met a girl named Cindy". You're welcome.

My girlfriend give great blow jobs and loves anal sex, but she won't let give her oral. Although she is 35, she says she is saving that for marriage. She also claims she has never had vaginal intercourse. Is that possible? Whenever I attempt to go around front, I get shut down. I would like to at least get a good look at it. She is Christian and sometimes even wears a dress to bed. She rolls it up so I can get to her ass. Should I be worried that she has issues? - R.H., Birmingham, Alabama

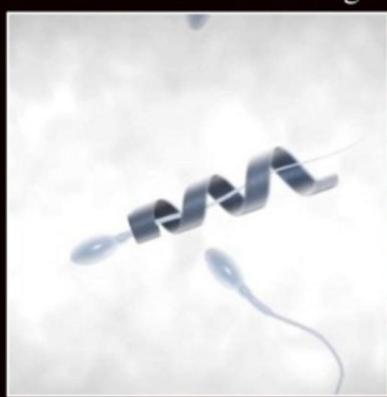

Wow! I understand the question but not the problem. It's known that just under 70% of men prefer oral to vaginal sex. So I would think that you REALLY don't have problem with that. As far as holes go...the ass is warmer and tighter than having vaginal sex. So I really don't understand that problem either. As far as her having issues...what issues? She explained to you, in plain English, that she's saving her vagina for marriage. Oh, and wearing a dress to bed that she rolls up so you can get to her ass...sounds hotter than a bottle of boiled tabasco. So here are your options - take the mouth and ass or put a ring on it.

They have made a tiny robot that can help sperm reach its final destination. The creators hope that this will couples conceive in the future.

Insects fitted with tiny 3D glasses are showing scientists how they can catch fast-moving camouflaged crickets despite having brains no bigger than a pin head...Why?

A thief was force-fed more than 40 bananas by police in India to recover a stolen necklace he had consumed it in a bid to conceal his crime.

Initially, an enema was administered to try and retrieve the jewelry.

But when this failed, officers resorted to a more unorthodox technique after deciding an operation would be too expensive.

"He was fed more than 40 bananas throughout the day," said Mumbai police senior inspector Shankar Dhanavade.

"Eventually the chain was found. We made him wash and disinfect it."

SINUS PRESSURE?

If you live anywhere like I do in a sub-tropical area then I don't need to tell you how terrible the allergies are all year around.

I never had so many sinus pressure problems until recently.

I have tried many different allergy medications but nothing seems to really work.

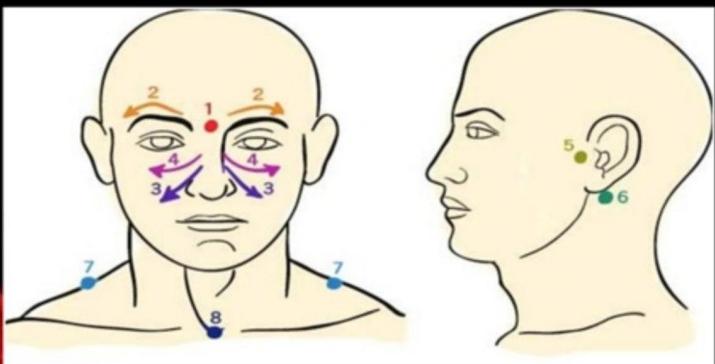

So, after countless and pointless trips to the doctor's I started to do my own research. Doctors and pharmacies probably don't want you to know and try all this because then they loose copays....

While doing my research I learned that there are 8 different pressure points in the head alone for relieving sinus pressure. The best part is THIS WORKS!!

What a surprise...sinus relief without medication!

I always start in between my eyes and go just underneath the eyebrows and around the whole eye...you will instantly feel it all starting to move...

You will need to see which points work best for you but I highly recommend it for anyone who is having trouble with sinus pressure and finding medications that work.

Album of the Month

I've always had an appreciation for Tank, since he dropped his first single Freaky. I admit that I still like the groove of most of the tunes on Sex, Love & Pain though a few tracks let the language carry them instead on the music. Lyrics that carry some substance. Take the song Fucking with me - Tank buys into the imaginary regulation that today's soul music must contain more ignorance than substance to moves more units. So, instead of lyrics of substance you'll find "Part that pussy for a real nigga." Great music, great vocal but eliminate the @#$!

Honey West Retro Presents

A Valentine to Dorothy

Regular readers of my column know that I love all things retro. Honoring the beautiful babes of other eras. I don't live in the past, but I appreciate amazing talent that deserves to be remembered. February is TFM's annual Valentine's issue, making it the perfect time to lay symbolic roses at the feet of one of the most beautiful ladies EVER - luscious Playboy playmate, Dorothy Stratten. It's even more appropriate because February was her birth month ( Feb 28, 1960). Fate definitely played a role in guiding me to this month's Valentine salute. Cool, huh?

I first saw the beauteous Dorothy Stratten in a cheesy Star Wars-style flick, "Galaxina" and was instantly hooked. I thought she was fabulous as a chillingly beautiful robot.

I remember so well how I searched for her name in the credits. Dorothy Stratten. It was a name I wouldn't forget. The movie was a flop (although today it's a cult classic), but she sure wasn't a flop. I didn't know who she was at the time, but as they say, cream always rises to the top, and she was pure cream on her way to the very top. Her face didn't look real, that's how beautiful she was. Watching her on screen, I thought she was made of some supernatural substance, like gamma rays or moon beams. I wondered if she'd be in more movies. And she was in a few more, and I enjoyed them very much.

My goal in writing this salute is not to rehash the sad facts surrounding the tragic way she died in 1980 at the impossibly young age of 20. It's to celebrate what a uniquely sexual and stunning woman she was, and what a really big star she would have been, as the personalized plate on her Mercedes seemed to predict: "STAR80".

Looking through numerous gorgeous photos of her, I found several that are retro faves of mine, capturing the distinctive 80's glam look. Dorothy was a product of the 80's, she embodied that decadent era when life seemed to have no limits and $$$ flowed.

HERESIE.COM/ENFER

Wow, she actually makes that tacky chair look like a million bucks. It's the quintessential 80's pose, featuring an "au naturel" bush. (Hmm, the carpet definitely doesn't match the drapes!) And she makes that cheapo black top and stockings look like the most expensive designer lingerie. But hey, with a face and bod like that, everything glitters like diamonds.

The 80's was the last gasp of natural breasts. Dorothy had the perfect pair.

This lady could do the "dripping wet and soapy for your pleasure" pose better than any female in the world.

Ahhh, leg warmers, the ultimate weird 80's fashion statement. But who's looking at the leg warmers, right?

Today, guys mentally erase her bush and wonder how great she would have looked bare, but you can't improve on nature.

Why would you want to? Her bod was a work of art, from head to toe, needing no artificial enhancement or improvement.

This pic is so hot, showing off Dorothy's toned, athletic physique , tan lines, and legs that go on forever.

I can't imagine what it must have felt like to be the photographer on the other end of the lens.

As always, she makes those tacky 80's trends - permed hair and silver disco heels - look fresh and natural. Her loveliness even makes those barren concrete steps seem inviting.

It was every man's fantasy to walk with a nude Dorothy to her sensuous pool (or hot tub, the ultimate 80's party destination!)

Oddly, after writing this article I stumbled across an old interview in which she said her secret dream was to "fly to the moon".

So maybe she really was made of those supernatural moon beams that I felt were beaming from her shimmering face.

A lot more could be said about the very special Dorothy Stratten, a lot more than I can say here.

But hopefully it's been enough for her to feel the love wherever she is.

Happy Valentine's Day, DS. You're the best.

Jessica

Though she WAS “hanging out” with this other guy, I was the reason we broke up. I made the mistake of stepping out on her with some chick who wore really heavy lipstick. Why I didn’t think to change my shirt before I went to see her...I have no idea. It wasn’t like we lived together and she found it in the wash.

Despite all of this, there she was in my bedroom, crying her eyes out after being told that I was in love with the next cheater in my life.

Rochelle was a couple of years older than I was, so she was able to start her club life a little earlier. She would go every Thursday faithfully, to watch a male strip show. Occasionally, she would go out on other nights and on the weekends, which I didn’t think much of at first.

It wasn’t until I went into full stalker mode and drove to the club and watched her go to her car after the club let out. She was giving out her number, hugging other guys, letting them rub on her...oh, it was on.

Now, she always made it home so I can’t say she was actually cheating but I was certainly going to.

I started seeing this really attractive...um, Filipina I think, named Mona. She looked Asian but had a Hispanic last name. Super hot, I mean...comparing the two side by side, you would wonder why I stayed with Rochelle.

Long story short, someone that Rochelle knew started working where I worked. The two had a phone conversation, she told her where she worked, Rochelle asked if she knew me and she told her I was dating Mona. Boom, relationship over...right?

We got back together somehow and like most 2nd chance relationships - she immediately gave me crabs. Believe me, THAT happens to everyone!

She had obviously been sleeping with some nasty ass men when we split, so...that made us even.

I guess she didn’t see it that way because she sat me down one night and told me that she had gone to visit one of her ex’s specifically to cheat on me...but she wasn’t able to.

What’s funny this journey was how we finally broke up for good. Rochelle caught me out with high school sweetheart...IRONY! She flipped, wanted to fight, made a scene...done.

My third cheater was Megan. Another attractive woman - of course I would say that. Megan’s problem was that she was just a liar. She would lie about anything for any reason. I didn’t understand how serious it was at first. She would lie about things that were so obvious that I usually just thought she was joking.

Her favorite lie was that her father was dying. I would think to myself...again? Her family lived a couple of hours away, occasionally she would disappear on Fridays, returning on Sunday nights. I thought she was visiting her Dad. Plus, I really didn’t care...it gave me more time to hit the clubs and hook up with some of my regulars.

Then...people began coming to me to tell me what a whore. There was a girl that she worked with that told me about Megan fucking a guy in the back seat of his car in the parking lot during a break.

That was a little unbelievable, until she came home from “work” one night, drunk off her ass with her shirt on inside out. Even then I thought...maybe.

Then, I had a couple of guys confront me at work about hooking up with her. That was about the same time the hang up calls started.

One of personal favorites was the time we were picking out a movie at Blockbuster, I guy walked up to her, crammed a bunch of love letters that she had written him in her hand and walked away.

Another co-worker!

She never ever lost her cool though, it was like it never happened. I was completely pussy whipped and cheating that stuff like that didn’t really matter, but...Needless to say, that relationship ended.

Why do Women Cheat?

A Facebook fan suggested that we write on this topic...so this ones for you!

By Seth Miller

Full disclosure, I'm a victim.

Most men don't like to admit that they have cheated on. It's the whole, I have the largest penis, I'm the best in bed macho thing that doesn't allow us to admit that OUR WOMAN willingly opened her legs for another man.

Before I drop the bomb on why this happens, I'll share a few of my personal experiences.

The first time I'll "claim" to have been cheated on was when my high school sweetheart decided to step out on me.

She was a year behind me and quite honestly, even though we had dated for most of the time we were in high school, looking back at it now - if we continued the relationship, I could have been in trouble.

Well, we didn't.

After I graduated she began hanging out with one of our mutual acquaintances. It wouldn't have been so bad if it weren't for the fact that he had mentioned to me that he really admired me and thought that my girlfriend was really attractive.

Well, he got her and I moved on. Just so you know, this article is bullshit free. Yes, she came back and asked to get back together. This was after, I tried to completely destroy her when I found out she was with someone else. I went to her mother and told her about some of the things that were going on when she wasn't looking.

Her reaction was way beyond what I expected.

From what I hear, she was called every whore, slut and cunt in the book. Her sisters actually asked me to come and tell her mother it wasn't true...nope.

So...

Why do women cheat?

In my case, it was because they either found out about my indiscretions, were revenge motivated or both.

According to DivorcedMoms.com, the Top 8 reasons that women cheat are...

8. Bored

He doesn't spray on that good smelling cologne anymore, his clothing is wrinkled, stained or way out-of-date. When he comes home from work (assuming he has a job), it's the same old thing; "what's for dinner"? When the weekend comes, he says he's tired and just wants to relax at home, or go out to the same sports bar you go every weekend.

The routine is the same over and over again. You are no longer on the same page. You barely have anything in common. You are feeling emotionally distant from him. You find yourself looking at other prospects and fantasize about being with someone else. You begin to feel excited (something you haven't felt in "forever") just thinking about it.

There are many ways to spice up an old, tired relationship. Boredom is something that can be resolved with a little, or sometimes a moderate amount of effort. It requires both of you introducing new ideas and behaviors, and some spontaneity. Be sure of what you want.

7. Feeling under-appreciated

When you are in a relationship, you like to please your man. Cooking a romantic dinner, buying sexy lingerie, and listening with your heart, are just a few ways you may show your love and appreciation. So what happens when you don't hear "thank you, please or I love you." Holidays and birthdays come and you don't receive anything meaningful, nothing at all, not even a verbal acknowledgment. We all have thresholds, and once yours is reached, you may decide to act on a "thank you, please, or I love you" coming from another direction. Let your man know he may lose you if he continues to take you for granted.

6. Low self-esteem

When you feel insecure about yourself, you have a need to seek validation from others. This can be in the form of sexual, emotional, or intellectual attention. When you don't love or value yourself, you may project that onto the person you are in a relationship with, and believe they don't love or value you. Even if your husband or boyfriend loves you greatly, you still may cheat because you find it hard to accept their unconditional love. I suggest reading one of the many self-help books out there on building your self-esteem, or get some counseling to help improve self-confidence.

After talking with Susan, I really feel that this was the reason she cheated. When we would go out, she made it more than obvious that she wanted the attention of other men. In hindsight, it made it feel better about herself.

5. Financial independence

When you feel financially dependent on your husband or boyfriend, it's more difficult to speak up in arguments or leave the relationship. The fear of being alone and financially unstable keeps you in a one-down position. Now that women make their own money, enjoy working, and are good at it, the need to stay in an unhappy relationship is not necessary. That feeling of power and independence can be like seeing the red carpet laid out for you; all the way to those other fish in the sea.

4. Weight loss/plastic surgery

Male attention increases quickly after a boob job, a butt implant or weight loss, and so does your self-confidence. With all this male attention, your temptation to cheat rises, and it takes more self-control to resist some of those male offers. Once you realize other guys want you, your desire to act on it may have you feeling euphoric. However, be careful, act wisely and make your pros and cons list.

Which brings me to my last and most devastating cheater. I met Susan at a club and we hit it off immediately. It was like, we met one night and she moved in the next day.

Within the first six months, she was pregnant.

When something like that happens there are mixed feelings. On one hand, I barely know this chick and on the other I'M GOING TO BE A DAD!

During her pregnancy, I still went to the club but I had something special at home that I didn't want to fuck up. I had seen too many friends hook up with these women and leave them with a baby. I didn't want to be that guy.

I couldn't have been happier when our child was born. I started thinking, this is it. This is how I'm going to live the rest of my life. I'm a Dad.

Well, about four or five months after the baby was born. She started a new job and I relationship turned ugly.

Our sex life all but tanked and just like Megan, she started disappearing on Friday and show back up on Sunday. Only this time there was a child involved. It wasn't a problem that we weren't spending time together but when you don't bother to come home to take care of your baby...wow.

The excuse was always the same, she was hanging out with a couple she met at work and their friends.

I believed her and I got it. Now was her chance to "get back at me" for all those times I left her at home with a baby in her belly while I went out and did my thing. Now, I had the baby.

The first time I became suspicious was when she called someone to come pick her up after an argument. I thought it may have been a guy but I was too pissed and "macho" to pretend I really gave a shit.

I even stood outside with our kid in her car seat and waited with her. A truck pulled up - I couldn't see who was inside, she got in and they drove off.

It didn't matter who picked her up, if she could leave me standing there with our child then maybe it was time I moved on.

As I embarked on what I thought was our obvious break up, I had an epiphany - together or not, I'm tied to this bitch FOR LIFE!

It took one event, one phone call to change my life FOREVER.

One payday, I decided to play nice and take Susan "make up" shopping. I bought her a couple of nice outfits, bras and panties when she tells me about an office party she's going to.

She shows me the invitation and tells me that it's employees only.

I was a little concerned so I talked to her mother about it. She told me to trust her, so I did.

I watched as she got dressed in the clothes and underwear that I had just bought, walk out the door, get in MY CAR and drive off.

About 20 minutes later, the phone rings.

I asked who it is and he tells me. It was a name that I had heard Susan speak...often. The asshole explains that he's calling to see if Susan is still coming to pick him up.

I'm holding our fussy six month old in my arms while we go through the Q&A. Susan told him that she left me and moved in with her mom, they had been seeing each other for weeks and he had no idea I was still in the picture. Hesitantly, I asked the BIG QUESTION...are you fucking her? Yes, for weeks.

I asked him to let her know I knew, hoping she would come right home after discovering the gig was up...nah! She made it home at about noon the next day even though she knew I was supposed to go in at 8 am to work some overtime to feed her funky ass. I thought about leaving and taking the kids, it was more than obvious that she didn't give a shit - but I didn't. I had to look waaaaay beyond my feelings and take care of our kids.

3. Bad sex

Women need to feel desired and experience REAL orgasms during sex. If women are getting bad sex, not enough sex, non-emotional sex, or "wham-bam-thank-you-mam" sex, you may eventually lose interest in the relationship and look elsewhere for GOOD sex! This creates a temptation to seek sexual or emotional satisfaction elsewhere. In my opinion, it's best to communicate your needs to your man with the hopes that he will step it up a notch. You can do this on your own or with the help of a sex therapist.

2. Revenge

Being cheated on is a very difficult act to forgive. For those of you who have been cheated on, you know how awful it feels. You feel deceived, hurt, angry, sad, numb and even violated. It also affects your self-esteem. At the moment, you find out your man cheated, your whole body begins to shake, you begin to sweat, your stomach drops, and you feel nauseated.

Clearly, it negatively affects your relationship, your mood, behavior, and your ability to trust the cheater ever again. When you have been cheated on, some of you may want to get revenge by making them feel the way you felt. This can lead you, to do the cheating next. The biggest truth is that cheating never solves a relationship problem. Communication, assertiveness and increasing passion and romance in your relationship are a much better solution.

1. Lack of attention and intimacy

How long can you go without receiving love and attention before you look somewhere else? Some can go for only days or weeks, and others can go for years. However, in general, women need and desire intimacy, physical touch, and mental and emotional attention.

If you are not receiving this from your husband or boyfriend, it will only be a matter of time and you may seek it from another i.e. a caring guy friend, the attentive guy who feeds your emotional needs at your workplace, or the hot trainer at the gym.

Women deprived of attention, compliments, and compassion; usually have emotional affairs. That doesn't mean it won't lead to sex, but initially they crave the attention and compassion that has been absent from their relationship.

Most women have been taught since childhood to be "good little girls", "behave like a lady", and "grin and bear it". Remember hearing the saying "little girls are made of sugar and spice, and all things nice"?

Fast forward to the 21st century, where women are now allowed to be tough, to say NO, to speak their mind, to become CEO's and to enjoy sex. Women have become more assertive and in tune to their needs, wants and desires.

Some men like the fact that women are able to "talk the talk" and "walk the walk" while others feel intimidated by it. Without a doubt, this change has had a great impact on relationships between men and women, specifically the actions and behaviors of women.

According to 2012 statistics from the Journal of Marital and Family Therapy, 14% of married women have cheated compared to 22% of married men. Although women are not exceeding men in cheating, women are having emotional affairs and sex behind their man's back. However, when a woman cheats, she is usually cheating for emotional intimacy while a man usually cheats for physical pleasure.

Women are still emotionally invested in their relationships. Women want to feel desired, wanted and irresistible. It's quite phenomenal how far women have come in this world, from women's lib, entering the workforce, becoming professionals, breadwinners of the family, and now getting their needs met; even if it means cheating.

Sara Cornell told the Huffington Post...

"It wasn't a specific, conscious, considered act," she told The Huffington Post. "I didn't wake up one day and think, 'Hey, I think I'd like to have an affair.' It just happened -- which is probably very hard to comprehend if you haven't actually been in the situation."

Other stories...

"I married the wrong man and made the 'easier' choice in life by being with him. It didn't become clear to me how wrong he was for me until we had a child. I turned to the right man for comfort for many years and hid it because I wanted my family to remain under the same roof. The biggest reason I strayed was the complete lack of attention I was shown. No birthday or Christmas cards, no gifts. He stopped saying 'I love you.' We went from having sex once a week before the baby to every couple months after the baby, to eventually once a year. It's really easy to fall out of love when you feel like your spouse is a roommate you co-parent with." - Krista R.

"I cheated on my husband because he cheated on me. That's the sad and simple truth. After spending six years with a man who couldn't stop cheating on me I was emotionally exhausted, depleted and lingering at rock bottom. I cheated out of an overwhelming desire to have someone give me back some of the love and attention I'd been giving my husband with nothing in return. I cheated because I was desperate for someone to love me with the same ferocious first-love intensity that I'd given my husband. I cheated with my high school boyfriend because I was angry, hurt and wanted my husband to feel the same pain he'd introduced to me six years ago and had never tried to work on, despite knowing that it was breaking me down. I cheated because I no longer loved myself and hoped that someone, anyone could hand me some self-worth, a little bit of love and help me begin again." -Lindsay T.

"I think it's important for people to realize that an affair can be the last thing on your mind but that it's easy for harmless friendships to progress into something more when you're unhappy at home. I was with my husband nearly 11 years. I had been primarily supporting us financially and emotionally for seven years and as the sole breadwinner of four.

I met a man in one of my continuing education classes and what followed was eight months of conflicted feelings, marriage counseling, ultimatums and anything else I could think of to save our marriage before I gave into an affair. Three months later, I was so exhausted and torn I left my husband even though he had forgiven me for cheating. About a month later, I started exclusively dating the other man I was involved with and asked my husband for a divorce. I still feel terrible about it. The affair wasn't the reason I left but I wonder if I would have had the strength to realize how unhappy I was without it happening. I still love my husband but I knew he'd never change so I had to walk away." -Melissa C.

"Cheating on my ex-husband isn't something I'm proud of and I would never do it again. The question I get asked a lot is why? Why did I cheat? Back then I would have given you a whole list of reasons: there was a communication breakdown, he had vices, he didn't take care of himself. But in retrospect, the one reason that stands out is how confused I was about how life and relationships work. I thought once my husband changed, everything would be OK. I couldn't see that my feelings of frustration over our relationship weren't about his behavior, it was about me: I created the negative mood through my negative thoughts. Then I allowed myself to become infatuated with another man. Things would have been very different if I had adjusted my way of thinking." - Marina Pearson

I think we may want to change our way of thinking when it comes to cheating. In most relationships you're not the first. We as men have to realize that society's ideals for women have definitely changed. Women are no longer pieces of property that we can beat with a stick no wider than our thumb.

We need to laser focus on our relationships, not just take them for granted. If you don't put a ring on it, women will find someone who will and you'll find you and your stuff...to the left, to the left.

Loving Mardi Gras Too Much

You wake up in court with your pants on backwards.

You don't know how it happened but you're the Saints starting quarterback this weekend.

You wake up in a T-Shirt that reads "Jambalayapalooza"

You passed out on Friday... You wake up on Tuesday... in the Marine Corps.

You go to the bathroom and actually pee hurricanes.

The only things in your pants pockets are your car keys and a court summons.

You have to pull beads out of places they NEVER should be and you don't wanna know how they got there.

You're on the front page of the paper for interrupting the Jazz Festival with your interpretative dancing while naked.

You discover a Tattoo of "Beignets Rule" on your ass.

The woman next to you in bed is named Fat Tuesday!

Two Black Guys...

These two Black guys were traveling through north Louisiana on their way from Chicago to Mardi Gras. This old hick sheriff sees them and pulls them over. The driver says, "Officer, what did I do?" The cop answers, "Boy, get out of that car and let me see your license." The Black guy gets out of the car and says "But officer, what did I do?" Wham! The old cop hits him on the side of his head and says, "Boy, don't give me none of that Nig**r back talk!" So the black guy gives him his license. Then the cop asks where they are going. The Black guy hesitates for a minute and again, Wham! The cop hits him again and says, "Boy, when I ask you a question, you answer me!"

So the Black guy replied, "We're on our way to New Orleans for Mardi Gras." So the cop gives the license back and walks around to the other side of the car. When he gets there, he reaches in and slaps the shit out of the other Black guy. The Black guy says, "What was that for?" The cop replies, "I was just granting your wish. I know that as soon as you two got out of sight you were going to say, I wish that bastard had hit me like that."

You might be Cajun if...

you start an angel food cake with a roux.

watching the "wild kingdom" inspires you to write a cookbook.

you think a lobster is a crawfish on steroids.

you take a bite of 5-alarm southwest chili and reach for the tabasco.

you pass up a trip abroad to go to the crawfish festival in breaux bridge.

your mama announces each morning, "well, I've got the rice cooking-what will we have for dinner?"

you sit down to eat boiled crawfish and your host says "don't eat the dead ones" and you know what he means.

you don't know the real names of your friends, only their nicknames.

you gave up tabasco for lent.

you know the difference between zatarains, zeringue, and zydeco.

your dog thinks the bed of your pickup is his kennel. any of your dessert recipes call for jalapenos.

you consider Opelousas the capital of the state, and Lafayette the capital of the nation.

you think the four seasons are: duck, rabbit, deer, squirrel.

One liners

Mardi Gras is more like "Where's My Bra"

Q: How is the bad economy affecting Mardi Gras?
A: Now when you throw beads, women only flash one boob!

Q: How do you start a Mardi Gras parade on bourbon street?

A: Roll a 40 down the street.

Q: Women are better communicators than men, but why do they get nude at Mardi Gras?

A: Because for 1 week in February in New Orleans, they can't say NO!

Q: What can you expect from the FEMA float at Mardi Gras this year?

A: No one knows, it's not expected 'til labor day!

Q: How do you know you went to Mardi Gras?

A1: You wake up on a sidewalk and the only things in your pants pockets are your car keys and a court summons.

A2: You wake up and discover a Tattoo of "Beignets Rule" on your ass.

Q: What's in the drink "FEMA"

A: No one knows, but it hits you one week later!

What's the problem with jogging during Mardi Gras?

The ice falls out of your drinks!

If you can't make it to New Orleans for Mardi Gras, please feel free to reveal your breasts right here.

Fat Tuesday? Guys are such jerks. Tuesday just has a thyroid problem.

Dear New Orleans,
Your Fat Tuesday is Charlie Sheen's Tuesday.

Mardi Gras reminds me how much inflation changes things. Beads used to buy you the island of Manhattan, now you only get two coconuts.

Happy Mardi Gras

Mardi Gras Facts & Figures

- Mardi Gras and Carnival are the same celebration.

Though Mardi Gras technically refers only to Fat Tuesday, the Mardi Gras season actually begins on Epiphany, a Christian holiday celebrated on January 6 that is otherwise known as Three Kings Day or the Twelfth Day of Christmas. In Brazil and many other countries, this period between Epiphany and Fat Tuesday is known as Carnival. Whichever name you prefer to use, the revelries of Mardi Gras last until midnight tonight, when Ash Wednesday ushers in 40 days of Lent.

- King Cake is only eaten during Mardi Gras.

Available only during the Mardi Gras season, king cake is typically made with brioche dough. Braided and laced with cinnamon, the dough is then glazed with purple, green and gold sugar or covered in icing in those same Mardi Gras colors.
